Dirk Peters

Project Director Renewable Energy And Energy-Efficient Mobility
German Energy Agency

I specialize in policy advice and business mediation with regard to market development for sustainable transport technologies, esp. clean vehicles and alternative fuels. I have a technical and economic background combined with skills in business development and mediation. I advise stakeholders from both the public and private sector.

In my main project my team and I facilitate and mediate the German national platform for natural gas and biomethane in road transport: Initiative Erdgasmobilität - Erdgas und Biomethan als Kraftstoffe. We develop recommendations for the national policy framework for clean vehicles and alternative fuels infrastructure. These recommendations are negotiated between all affected industries and communicated to the national government and the European Commission. My team regularly develops studies, legal opinions, progress reports and positioning papers.
